

Abstract

The present invention relates to proteins involved in inflammatory processes and the modulation of the function of such a protein in order to positively 5 influence inflammatory diseases.